Foreword

Cork Education and Training Board was established in 2013 and is committed to providing quality learning experiences for all.

Cork Education and Training Board is a driving force of education and training in Cork, providing services which are innovative, responsive and inclusive. Through Cork ETB there is a pathway for every learner. Youth Work is a planned programme of education to enhance the personal and social development of young people which is complementary to their formal, academic or vocational education and training. Cork ETB has a legislative responsibility to support the provision, coordination and administration of youth work services under the Education and Training Board Act 2013. This role complements CETB's other functions in further, community and continuing education. Over 12 agencies deliver youth work services on behalf of the DCYA and Cork ETB. Cork ETB is committed to advance social cohesion, active citizenship, equality and area generation and believe youth work is an essential element in achieving this while complementing formal education. After a difficult few years for the youth work sector where cuts of almost 31% were endured, we look forward to building a new, sustainable, outcomes based model of youth work for Cork.

Overview

The National Policy Framework for Children and Young People 2014-2020, Better Outcomes, Brighter Futures is the first overarching national policy framework for children and young people, aged 0-24 years, developed and led by the Minister for Children and Youth Affairs on behalf of the Government. Almost all policy areas have a direct or indirect effect on children and young people's lives. The purpose of the framework is to coordinate policy across Government to achieve better outcomes.¹

This Profile of Cork ETB Youth Services embraces the vision as set out in Better Outcomes Brighter Futures which is:

‘for Ireland to be one of the best small countries in the world in which to grow up and raise a family, and where the rights of all children and young people are respected, protected and fulfilled; where their voices are heard and where they are supported to realise their maximum potential now and in the future.’²

1. CORK ETB ADMINISTERED YOUTH WORK SCHEMES

Cork ETB's primary scheme of youth work grants is made available from the Dept. Children and Youth Affairs, in respect of special out-of-school projects for disadvantaged young people. These schemes are Special Projects for Youth (SPY), Young Peoples Facilities and Services Fund (YPFSF) and Youth Information (YIC). Priority is given to projects in the spheres of special youth work initiatives, young homeless people, young substance abusers and young travellers. Grants are allocated to organisations and groups for specific projects which seek to address the needs of young people who are disadvantaged, due to a combination of all or some of the following factors:

- high youth population
- youth unemployment
- dependence on social welfare/unemployment assistance
- social isolation
- drug/substance abuse
- homelessness (including temporary homelessness)
- problems of juvenile crime, vandalism and truancy
- failure or non-existence of mainline youth services
- Inadequate take-up of ordinary educational opportunities.

The grant-aided youth work initiatives aim to facilitate the personal and social development of participants to realise their potential and in particular to equip them with the knowledge, skills and attitudes necessary for their appropriate integration in society. In addition, they present opportunities for young people to undertake actions corresponding to their own aspirations and to assume responsibilities within their local communities.

Factors influencing

Planning of Services in Cork

YOUTH DEMOGRAPHICS

The number of 0-18 in Cork is 26%; however the percentage of 0-18 year olds in the city is significantly below the national average at 19.2% while the population of the County is 28%.⁴ One of the principal features of the youth demographics in Cork and the provision of services is that while Cork County has a higher youth population the provision of youth services is scarce and disparate while the city has a lower youth population but has more concentrated areas of disadvantage.⁵

Knocknaheeny, Mahon, The Glen, Mayfield and Bishopstown are the areas in the City with the highest youth populations and all are served by youth services at both a universal and targeted level. Yet in Cork County as the commuter belt to Cork City has grown, larger towns, have seen a significant growth in population. Regional towns with a large young population will need to be catered for in the coming years with appropriate facilities and services to cater for large youth populations particularly in areas which previously had an aging population. Towns with the highest youth populations – Douglas, Carrigaline, and Ballincollig have no targeted youth service provision. It is also important to consider rural isolation, in particular West and North West Cork which wouldn't have youth populations as large as the commuter towns yet suffer more complex youth needs due to high levels of youth unemployment and difficulty accessing services.

The Cork CYPSC (children and young people services committee) have completed a socio-demographic which should be used to inform the planning of services.⁶ The report observes that based on the scale of disadvantage faced by children and young people in Cork City more targeted services are required, while more universal services are required in the county due to the overall higher youth population, while also noting that accessibility is important.⁷ It is envisaged in planning of new schemes that a clear evidence base will be used and informed by complex data systems such as Pobal Mapping.⁸

FUTURE RESOURCING OF YOUTH WORK IN CORK

In 2012 the total expenditure for youth programmes administered by the Youth Affairs Unit was €56.806 million.⁹

The 2011 DCYA Comprehensive Review of Expenditure¹⁰ states;

'the DCYA proposes to examine the feasibility of amalgamating the 5 (funding) schemes' ... into a new, rationalised scheme for local staff led youth provision commencing from 2013'.

As part of this rationalisation and review;

"(The DCYA) will consider whether it would be more beneficial to move to a system based on local funding envelopes, possibly dispersed by the VEC's to individual projects and services in line with locally-decided plans and objectives. Reforms in this area Would allow VEC's to respond to local needs through re-prioritising and reconfiguring front-line provision as appropriate".¹²

Subsequent to the above recommendations, the DCYA identified a number of youth programmes to be the subject of a Value for Money and Policy Review (VFMPR). As a new Department, the DCYA was keen to use the VFMPR to reform and improve programmes and areas of policy responsibility. It recommended that existing youth programmes be amalgamated into one funding stream¹³ and that additional governance capacity for the programme would be sourced within ETB's.¹⁴ This coincides with ETB's legislative function to;

Support the provision, co-ordination, administration and assessment of youth work services in its functional area and provide such information as may be requested by the Minister for Children and Youth Affairs in relation to such support.¹⁵

The VFMPR also recommends that local service planners identify groups of young people based on clear demographic data and other local intelligence and specify the operational means to assure appropriate engagement. Cork ETB welcomes the opportunity to work and engage with new structures such as the Local Community Development Committees (LCDC's) and the Children and Young People Services Committee (CYPSC's) in doing so.

ETB's have a key role in Youth Work but also in both formal and non-formal education. Cork ETB is a leader in non-formal education particularly the field of further education, community education, literacy and numeracy. It is therefore timely and appropriate that Cork ETB in partnership with the respective community and youth organisations embrace the opportunity of creating better outcomes and brighter futures for young people.
